Abby's Un-Valentine (The Baby-Sitters Club #127)
Synopsis

Valentine’s Day is Abby’s least favorite holiday. Mushy stuff like valentines, red hearts, and a school dance turn her into a Valentine’s Scrooge. When Ross Brown, a perfectly nice guy in Abby’s English class, invites her to the dance, Abby tries to set him up with her twin sister, Anna.

Anybody whos reading this it is sort of like a book ok?.This is about Abby,Ross and Anna . Abby and And Anna are identical twins but their pretty different.But anyway theres a boy called Ross in Abbys class and he likes her and when valentines day is coming up Abbys school will be having a valentines dance party and Ross asks Abby to come with him but she refused her friends and her sister(exept Kirsty)act as if she commited a crime! so then Abby found out that Anna likes Ross and then she said why won’t you go ? and then Abby has a plan so she invited Ross to her house and when he came Anna usually wears glasses and Abby wears contact lenses but they had no time so Anna wore Abbys favorite shirt and Abby wore Anna’s hoodie but she was blinking too hard and hercontact lenses fell off so she just wore glasses and then when Ross came in he thought that Abby was Anna and Anna was Abby then when their mom came and she knew who was still who because she called Anna Anna and Abby Abby then Ross was very angry so they apologized the next day then Ross found out that Anna liked music and invited her to a concert and after the concert she was going to go to the valentines dance and while the valentines dance was on Kirsty and Abby who didn’t care about boys or valentines day went to the cinema. They’re movie was called PEPPERONI MAN and while it was starting the man who worked in the ciname asked if somebody had a red heart stamp on their ticket and Abby had it and so the man gave her a huge heart box filled with chocolates and as Kirsty asked who are you going to share it with? Abby answered i’ll tell you at the BSC(baby sitters club) meeting:

This book reminded my a little of the Fabulous Five’s "The Boyfriend Dilemma." In it Abby’s not interested in dating, but some of the other kids are not very understanding. Even some of the BSC members lapse a little here. But I was glad that Abby didn’t cave in to the pressure and that finally her friends came around and supported her, even Claudia & Mary Anne, who have boyfriends(when are Mary Anne & Logan going to break up—they’re mismatched & it would be so stupid if they stuck together much longer). In "The Boyfriend Dilemma", Christie’s friends weren’t very supportive of Christie’s desire not to date. I liked the ending where Kristy & Abby go to a movie together instead of the dance. I also like how all the members of the BSC put priority on their friendship, even when they have boyfriends. I loved the message that you don’t need a date to have a good time. Also kind of cute & funny that Abby wound up winning a heart-shaped box of candy(and turned red over it!)
The one thing that was missing from this book...Mallory! I hope she comes back soon; the club’s not the same without her.

Yup, we’ve all read how moralistic this book is and how if Abby isn’t ready for a realationship, then all the more power to her! I agree wholeheartidly but this story is like bones with no meat. It lacks depth and, well, OOPH. You know what I mean, I assume. It is like Anne wrote it in a few minutes, and then ran off to her publisher to get the book published. I love the BSC books, I have been an avid reader from the very start. But it is getting very clear to me that all the new BSC books are getting flowery and kind of, well, stupid. I think it’s time to move on to a new series! :)

This was a great book! In it Abby really dislikes Valentines day, and will stop at nothing to not get involved! Will she soften up? Will her switch work? What will happen? Find out in this great book!

Abby mostly hates Valentine’s Day, except for the fact that it happens in winter, so her allergies usually aren't acting up. She also likes the chocolate and candy part. Ross, a guy from Abby's English class, asks her to the SMS Valentine's Day dance. Abby turns him down and explains that she isn't into all the Valentine hype. However, Ross keeps trying to change Abby's mind and won't give up. All of the BSC members (except Kristy) can't understand why Abby doesn't want to date and is happy by herself. Abby plots to set her twin, Anna, up with Ross. I think this book is somewhat unrealistic in the fact that Abby and Kristy have an "Ew! Boys!" attitude. By eighth grade, most girls are ready to date. At least in the California Diaries series, the girls are interested in guys and date. But it was cool that Abby followed her own instincts and didn't go out with Ross. A sad part of the book occurs when the Thomas family has to give Scout back to the leader dog foundation when her training period up. Overall, this was a good BSC book, but not one of my favorites.

Abby's Un-Valentine was okay, but not that great. First of all, Kristy and Abby are 13, and they don't seem to have a mature interest in guys. That's kind of unrealistic, but that's not really the reason I didn't favor the book. The plot is sort of boring. It might be a good subplot, but not a real plot. It dragged, and it was pretty tedious to say the least. I really don't suggest you read this book.

I loved the way abby didn't let anyone push her into doing something she didn't want to do. I think the bsc need to just let her be. Stacey was wrong to give ross ideas on how to ask abby on a date. My favorite part was when ross confused abby & anna.
